HALF MOON CAY

As Your Editor is keenly aware at this point, and told again and again by the fellow members of the editorial staff, Your Historian and Editor-In-Exile would have some beautiful and wonderful historical factoids to share about Half Moon Cay, such as “discovered in 1803 by Simon Cay, Half Moon Cay is the oldest island in the Caribbean that was discovered by a guy whose name is spelled differently than how it sounds. Fun fact: If you swim in your pajamas while on Half Moon Cay, you cannot run for mayor.” And I doubt Your Historian and Editor-in-Exile would be tired and hungover today, which Your Editor certainly is not. Fine! Your Editor admits it Your Historian and Editor-in-Exile is superior and a GOD among editors. Enjoy Half Moon Cay!

SUPPLEMENTAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

- Onboard Booking Forms must be dropped off at the box in the Atrium before 10am on Friday to ensure all of the forms can be processed in a timely manner.
- Friday is Thursday. Up is down. Left is right. Sea is land, land is sea. Lido is the game room. Shadow is light. Half Moon Cay is Grand Turk. Scrabble is now Jazz Scrabble (aka you can use fake words). Main Dining Hall is B.B. King’s. All shows moved to 3AM and JoCoBot is definitely still not sentient.

STORMOSCOPES

The stars, speaking through Storm, who might have been slightly intoxicated

- Libra: What does a hen weigh? This question will bug the snot out of you until you find something else that weighs exactly the same as a hen. You’re not so complicated.
- Capricorn: You’ll have a dream wherein Frank Zappa teaches you how to use a ratchet wrench. You already knew how to use one, but you pretend you don’t. At first because you don’t want to seem rude, but then because he’s doing a really good job of explaining it, to the point that, although you haven’t learned anything new, you feel like you have.
- Ares: Berries, Scaries, Cherries, Ferries, Gary’s, Uncle Larry’s, Marries all rhyme. “Clarice” is a near-rhyme, but respectable all the same.
- Gamora: Tell everyone you meet today “All dogs are good dogs.” It won’t get old. I promise.
- Paglotzen: An untethered sense of dread in which you’re certain there will be tension and unpleasant-feeling, but you can’t say precisely what might precipitate it.

A SINCERE APOLOGY: A FOLLOW-UP

One Sea Monkey said “Corvina is people.” The Sea Monkey who originally posted the question “What is corvina?” subsequently posted, “Hmmm I see I’m referenced indirectly in this morning’s Wednesday When and Where underneath A Sincere Apology... So what IS corvina.” The question is still outstanding. For God’s Sake, please somebody, anybody, tell us what corvina is! Ken Jennings? If you’re out there, the ship needs you. 1000 points to anyone who can thwart it.

OVERHEARD ON JOCO CRUISE AKA HOW TO FEEL FANCY

Sea Monkey 1: What are you eating?
Sea Monkey 2: Panna Cotta. It’s basically fancy pudding with berries served in a plastic cup.
Sea Monkey 3: If it’s served in a plastic cup, pinky up!

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

What is the best Legend of Zelda Game?
As always, message or thwart @littlejohnny with your answer, and do not forget to show your work on this one. Winner will get a very special praise.

Trivia Answers, a Review

“CREATIVE” ANSWERS submitted by Sea Monkeys for the question: “What are the odds of successfully navigating an asteroid field?”
Sea Monkey: “Perfect odds of navigating since everything in the belt is really far apart from each other.”
Sea Monkey: “They are the successfully navigating an asteroid field are 20,763,000:1.
Sea Monkey: “Navigating an asteroid field would be quite easy because the asteroids are nowhere near each other and nothing like they look in the movies. Navigating the Grand Canyon is more ch (sic) more dangerous.”

CORRECT ANSWER: As C-3PO says in Empire, it’s obviously: 3,720:1.
Your Editor memorized that quote because Your Editor thought it might come in handy at some point, and little did he know that it would ever be relevant to any official duty of Your Editor. The fact that Ken Jennings did not submit an answer to me means that he did not know, and therefore, that I know some trivia that Ken Jennings does not know.

TIP FOR THIS TRIP ON A SHIP

Now here’s a chocolate chip cookie tip. As we all know, chocolate chip cookies are some of Lido’s most precious and scarce resources. Well, you can get them delivered to your room via room service! This tip was given to Your Editor by a real pro. In fact, this cookie pro even makes multiple orders per day and leaves his door unlocked so every time he returns to his room, he is greeted by chocolate chip cookies! Your Editor applauds the commitment but cannot recommend keeping your door unlocked. Your Editor makes this recommendation knowing that this will cause many to claim cookies, creating a scarcity in the ship’s stock of cookies, and potentially curtailing the ability to get them via room service. If anyone wants to bake dozens, nay hundreds, of chocolate chip cookies and sell them on the Cruise with Your Editor next year, just thwart @littlejohnny.

THE TALE OF DAVY JONES’ SPECTACLES

This was a piece that the Historian and Editor-In-Exile wanted to write. The original text is lost, only the following fragment remains: “[terrible 19th century-style poem about how Davy Jones lost his glasses while swimming on the beach].”

WANG WANG FUELED MOVIE REVIEW: DUNSTON CHECKS IN: “SEMINAL SIMIAN CINEMA”

For today’s Wang Wang fueled movie review, Your Editor hit the Lido Aft Deck to crowdsource movie reviews from Sea Monkeys who were fueled by Wang Wangs. Thanks to the Wang Wangs, their subconsciousness freely flowed up to their conscious minds and out their mouths without any pesky inhibitions. This is how you get a true review. Here is a transcription of the review of Dunston Checks In: “Oh! I know the whole plot! It’s an orangutan and his name is Dustin. Hijinx ensue. [He] ends up being a crime fighter. I think someone’s trying to take money from an old woman. He teams up with a child. Dustin ends up fighting the bad guy...I think there’s bananas involved...Dustin goes into one of those dumb waiters and pops out. No one believes an orangutan is there until he actually pops out.” Please message or thwart @littlejohnny with every single part of this review that incorrectly restates the plot of Dunston Checks In. You will get one thousand points for each error identified.
