Hi Caryn,

I attended the recent LP national convention in Grand Rapids. I want to tell you what I experienced and what I think it means.

I saw a majority of convention delegates who wanted to embrace change and improvement. That desire was reflected in the leaders they elected. Since then, in just the first month, those new leaders have already delivered the promised change and improvement.

- They disaffiliated the problematic so-called Libertarian Party of New Hampshire.
- They revived LP News.
- They re-established 50-states-plus-DC ballot as a party goal and started spending money on it
- They achieved a modest but important net increase in membership\
- New outreach and recruitment efforts are already underway.

Meanwhile, with the 250th United States birthday at hand this coming weekend, the country is still a long way from the principles that founded it. Only the LP is dedicated to changing that. I think they deserve your support and membership now more than ever.
